ALEXANDRIA GAZETTE
AND VIRGINIA ADVERTISER
(FOR THE COUNTRY.)
Is published regularly on TUESDAYS, THURSDAYS and SATURDAYS, at $6 per annum—payable in advance.

MISCELLANEOUS ITEMS.
A distillery has been seized in Brooklyn with $150,000 worth of whiskey.
The passengers of the steamer Tennessee, whose loss was announced Thursday last, have to New Orleans.
The New Orleans firemen are in Philadelphia, receiving much attention from their brethren of that city.

Despatches from Washington mention a number of changes in postoffices in Maryland, Virginia and Pennsylvania.
Fifty lottery dealers in New York were indicted last week for not giving bonds for the payment of the tax on gross receipts.

Rev. Dr. Milo Mahan, of Baltimore, has been elected Professor of Systematic Divinity in the Episcopal General Theological Seminary of New York.
Three canal boats were abandoned in the storm on Lake Ontario last week. Anxiety is felt for their crews. A tug has gone from Oswego in search.

The Erie Railroad suit against the Vanderbilt road, for $3,000,000, was argued in Judge Barnard's court, New York, last week. The Judge will give a decision this week.

The unfavorable accounts published about the prospects of crops in Kansas are pronounced to be false. Both as to quantity and quality they are better than ever before.

A man named Charles B. Conklin has been arrested in Albany, New York, charged with being engaged in the robbery of the Merchants' Union Express Company, in August last.

A rather thinly attended mass meeting of workmen was held at Tompkins Square, New York, on Thursday last, to express their objections to the introduction of Coolie labor.

A steamboat race, which was causing much excitement and heavy betting, was in progress at late accounts from Memphis and Natchez, on the Mississippi river. We shall next hear of some terrible steamboat disaster.

At Fort Union, New Mexico, on Saturday, there was a terrible storm of hail, wind and lightning. Hailstones as large as walnuts fell for an hour. Parties from the neighboring country report the corn crop destroyed.

The Methodist of last week says:—"We learn by a cable despatch, received June 24 from Dr.
Hurst, that the German and Swiss Land Conference, which met at Karlsruhe on the 23d of June, has cast all its votes—39—for Lay Delegation."

The very general belief that a feather bed is a certain protection from lightning, receives direct refutation in a circumstance which transpired in Greenwich, Connecticut, a few days ago, where the lightning struck and set fire to a feather bed on which several persons were lying.

CROPS IN VIRGINIA.—Hague P. O., Westmoreland County, Va., June 27, 1870. [Correspondence of the Alexandria Gazette.] To make a reliable estimate of unharvested crops is at all times difficult, but especially in such seasons as the present. The wheat crop, for the breadth of land sown, promises a large yield. Straw is very abundant, but I have no doubt sanguine farmers will be greatly disappointed at threshing time. Few, I believe, expect anything like a full crop. All the diseases incident to very wet seasons prevailed extensively, and I doubt whether a single crop in Eastern Virginia was entirely exempt from them.

A gentleman who has recently passed through Loudoun county reports that a portion of the wheat was not worth harvesting. To estimate the crop of Eastern Virginia it is necessary to know something of the present deplorable condition of our agriculture. Scarcely a farm in a hundred is cultivated entirely by its proprietor. Nearly all the large farms on the rivers are in the hands of freedmen, who buy no fertilizers; sow no wheat; do no draining or manuring; and eke out a miserable existence and pay inadequate rents out of the scant proceeds of such very poor crops of corn as can be had without manure or proper tillage. I know no large farm on the Potomac that is cultivated entirely by its proprietor. Yet in the few cases in which intelligent gentlemen have been able to command capital to cultivate their own farms, agriculture was never more productive, or the farms more rapidly improved. We have passed through the ravages of four years' war, and the still more desolating effects of a four years' quasi peace. We are in little better condition than were the highly cultivated provinces of the Roman Empire, which had been improved to the highest extent under the patronage of Augustus and Maxima and the teachings of Virgil, after they had been ravaged by the Northern barbarians.

Historians inform us that many of the richest provinces were abandoned to wild beasts, being covered with water and grown up with shrubbery. Some portions of our dear old Virginia are reduced nearly to this condition.
The only hope for us is the return of our native population, who have the intelligence and energy, with the aid of the blacks, who turn an abundant supply of the best laborers, to renovate our agriculture, and to make Virginia really rich and great. A finer field was never presented to young men of rural tastes and a little capital.

Of the corn crop it is too early to speak.
This crop is always good on rich land, properly cultivated; but the best seasons fail to produce good crops under the wretched cultivation now common. Oats are promising, and fruits and garden crops abundant. Yours truly,
W. N.
